LIBERTY CONNECTION

The Liberty Legacy

On behalf of my family, I would personally like to welcome you to the second of many Liberty Connection community newsletters. Liberty has always been a dream of our family to establish a vibrant neighborhood on our property in West Sacramento. I am proud to say we have assembled an amazing team of professionals and strategic partners who are working very hard to create a dynamic community where people of all ages can call home. The Liberty Illustrative Site Plan, found on the next page, speaks to the land plan which was designed to create a pedestrian-scale community, reinforced by architecture firmly grounded within the historical context of the Northern Central Valley all while implementing our project's Six Core Values.

None of this would have been possible if it wasn't for my father and therefore, I would like to share with you a little more about him. In 2004 my father wrote The Do or Die Entrepreneur which told his story, life adventure, and struggles of a young man escaping North Korea, coming to America, and working very hard to raise his family and become a successful business man. His dedicated work ethic was publicly acknowledged late in his career when he received the Entrepreneur of the Year Award by Ernst & Young. He was honored and humbled by this award realizing that other recipients have included Ted Turner and Bill Gates. While my father was dedicated to his business, it was second to his family. I encourage you to read my father's book and learn in his words what it means to be a gentleman and to honor the customer.

I hope to meet you during our February Open House meetings when the Liberty design team and I will be available to talk and answer any questions you may have about this fantastic community we are planning.

Architectural Vision Honest, Wholesome, and Environmentally Responsible

The architectural vision for Liberty embraces the historical ideals that American cottage and farmhouse architecture have come to represent: a honest, wholesome, and satisfying design approach, grounded in a sense of the land and its traditions. Liberty's architecture will draw on the history of cottage and farmhouse styles used throughout California's North Central Valley with its rich small town history and will re-interpret this character into a more contemporary version to meet the needs of today's modern California living.

Liberty is committed to architectural excellence by using authentic-looking and sustainable materials, simple forms, and a lively color palette; keep it simple and true. Homes will be more open and will include comfortable porches to support a strong indoor/outdoor lifestyle as well as social connectivity with neighbors. Designed to be environmentally responsible and last for generations, the homes at Liberty will be built to meet or exceed California Title 24 Energy and Green Building Standards.

Liberty's Six Core Values

From the beginning, the vision for Liberty has been different from that of most other master-planned communities. Located within West Sacramento, just five minutes from the State Capitol, Liberty is envisioned to be a walkable and bikeable community carefully designed and crafted to preserve and enhance the City's hometown character and exceptional quality of life. Through distinctive and timeless architecture, innovations in community design, and the connection of people to places, Liberty will be a special place to call home for generations.

At the heart of Liberty are Six Core Values... these beliefs have helped guide Liberty from day one.

Family speaks to the support, caring, acceptance, and connection that people in a family have. This concept of "family" extends to how neighbors know and support each other.

Character speaks to a deep commitment to quality and detail.

Win/Win is more than a business approach, it is a life philosophy.

Aspiration is about having a goal that pushes beyond what many may say is possible... and having the perseverance to go after it.

Safety guides the design of the community to ensure the well-being of all that live there.

Timelessness speaks to a depth of design that is not subject to the trends of a certain era.

The Vision

Create a vibrant master-planned community, driven by Six Core Values, which provides diverse, livable neighborhoods that promote the classic symbol of "home," a healthy environment, and strives to be energy neutral.

The Plan

Liberty is a proposed walkable / bikeable master-planned community that has been carefully and thoughtfully designed to support the Vision and Six Core Values. The community plan provides a diversity of housing types for all generations that are complimented by parks, recreation, and leisure opportunities, neighborhood shops, and a K-8th grade school, all of which are linked by a well-organized network of local streets, greenbelts, and trails.

The Process

Liberty will be seeking approval from the City of West Sacramento in 2016. During the approval process there will be opportunities to learn more about the project, ask questions, and provide feedback. Those opportunities will include the City's General Plan update presentations, as well as community outreach meetings hosted by the Liberty project team. In mid-2016 Liberty will be considered for approval during City of West Sacramento Planning Commission and City Council public meetings.
